MEMBER OF PARTY DESCRIBES FATAL AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Councilman Duvall Tells How Clement J. Mathews
Met His Death

ROAD IN POOR CONDITION

Difficult to Keep Machine on it, Owing to Contour and Slippery Clay—Car Turns Over Once and Lands on Its Side.

The body of Clement J. Mathews, the Charleroi real estate man who was killed in an automobile accident near Waynesburg was brought home Tuesday afternoon and prepared for burial. Funeral services will be conducted at the home of J. Hindmarsh on Fairview avenue this evening at 7:30 o'clock and tomorrow morning the body will be taken to Cecil, Mr. Mathew's former home for interment. The one injured man, Rudolf Brendt went to his home in Belle Vernon Tuesday afternoon upon returning home. He is painfully injured, but it is not thought his injuries will prove serious.

Councilman D. R. Duvall, who drove one of the two automobiles in the hunting party described something of the fatal accident. He stated that Mathews with Rudolf Brendt and Harry King, the latter from Pittsburgh in his machine and himself with James Carter, Charles Abbott and Anson Sickles left Charleroi at 11:40 Monday night for a point near Waynesburg to hunt.

"We arranged before we left said Mr. Duvall, "to sound our horns if anything went wrong. Mathews asked me to lead. He followed all the way at about 300 yards behind. About two miles out of Waynesburg I came upon this bad piece of road. The road was a clay highway that was rounded and slippery. On one side was a cornfield with a dip from the road of about 15 feet. On the opposite side was an embankment. I drove into the ditch at the upper side to keep from sliding from the road, for it was dangerous from rains. After I had driven on a short ways those in our party noticed Mathews' car lights disappear. I stopped my car and tooted the horn. I tooted it three times, then we drove back to find what was the matter.

"We found the wreckage. Brendt was calling loudly for help. His feet were held under the car, which was on its side.

"Mathews breast was under the running board. His chest was crushed, it seemed and life was entirely extinct. Carter, Abbott and I had the car off Mathews in five minutes, but we could not get him out. He had been instantly killed. Brendt did not appear to be seriously injured, but we hurried him to Dr. Spragg in Waynesburg and notified the undertaker and coroner, who came out.

"King had been riding in the rear seat of Mathews car in charge of three dogs. I believe and he believes that when the machine plunged over the embankment the dogs leaped and pulled him away far enough to save him from injury. He landed in a corn shock. No one knows precisely how the machine went but Mathews received the full impact. It turned over once and a half."

TWO CHURCH MISSION BOARDS HOLD JOINT MEETING HERE

Monessen and Charleroi Christian Church Societies Listen to Good Addresses.

The Christian Women's Board of Missions of the First Christian church of Charleroi and the Monessen society held a meeting at the First Christian church here Tuesday evening. Miss Elsie Taylor of Washington who is the state secretary of the board of missions was present and made an address. Miss Rickard of the eastern part of the state who is also affiliated with the state organization made an address. Miss Isabella Dorbritz sang a solo, her accompaniment was played by Miss Lois Geho. At the close of the program a social hour was enjoyed and the Charleroi society served refreshments.

HARSHMAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Former Charleroi Man
Starts His Ford Coasting
And it Declines to Stop

CAR HITS BUMP, OVERTURNS

At least one town in the county is obliged to furnish the tale of a narrow escape in an automobile accident every day. Here is a quick action, one reel thriller from Millsboro. Jacob Harshman, lumber dealer and by the way a former Charleroi man, his son Weldon and Samuel Garner went for an automobile ride Tuesday afternoon. They started in the direction of Jefferson but did not get very far on their way until things began to go wrong. Near the top of the Millsboro hill the Ford car refused to go any farther. Harshman, the elder, who was driving turned the car with the idea of coasting down the hill. The car began to coast and coasted until coasting was all it could do. For the brakes refused to work. It was then that Garner thought it wise to depart, via the stern.

While the machine was plunging madly down the road, Hammer Garrett was driving across the bridge at the foot of the hill. He had two horses and a wagon in his care and as the automobile drew ever nearer he suddenly realized that things were about to happen. While he looked in agony at the approaching car, the auto struck a bump in the road, leaped into the air and turned over twice and arrived wrongside up.

When the car was lifted Harshman and his son were found to be uninjured, though slightly shaken up and somewhat frightened. Garrett was not glad that the men had had their adventure but at the same time was not sorry that the car had been stopped before it struck his outfit.

WOMAN DIES SUICIDE; HER HUSBAND IN JAIL

Tragical Ending Given to One of Final Chapters in Unusual Monessen Story—Bullet Alleged to Have Shot Stanford

Tragical was the ending of one of the final chapters in the life story of Mrs. Lottie Bullet, aged 30, colored of Monessen this morning. From carbolic acid poisoning, Mrs. Bullet died at the Charleroi Monessen hospital this morning at 5:30 o'clock. Her husband is in jail charged with felonious shooting with intent to kill, it being alleged he shot and badly wounded John Stanford at Monessen Monday morning.

Mrs. Bullet is said to have swallowed a quantity of a crude sort of carbolic acid at her home in Monessen Saturday. What caused her to do this deed is unknown, but is supposed to have been domestic troubles.

BINGVILLE DANCE IS MUCH ENJOYED EVENT

Large Attendance at Annual Affair At Elks' Home Tuesday Evening—Old-Style Costumes Worn—Colonial Quartet Sings.

One of the most pleasing of the annual Bingville dances ever held by a social committee of Charleroi, lodge No. 494, E. P. O. Elks was featured at Elks' home Tuesday night. Such was the attractiveness of the event that 300 or more persons were present to enjoy the program of entertainment offered.

Dancing was one of the chief features. Practically every one was in costume and a variety of ideas in backwoods styles was evidenced. Wheeler's orchestra and the Bingville band rendered the dance music. The Colonial quartet of Pittsburgh sang several selections, much to the delight of those in attendance.

The home was fittingly decorated for the occasion, and made to appear as much as possible like an old fashioned barn. On the basement floor a weighing social attracted much attention. Among the other features was that of a Bingville newspaper plant, with Joe T. S. Cowen of the Roscoe Ledger in charge. The chairman of the general social committee in charge of the affair was D. R. Hornell.

DEFENDANT AND HIS ATTORNEY BOTH GUILTY

Such is the Finding of Jury in Mock Trial Conducted by the Knights of Malta Lodge—Fines Are Administered.

Spice was given to the Knights of Malta meeting in the Bank of Charleroi hall Tuesday evening by a mock trial that followed closely a hunting contest. I. P. Hepler, one of the chief officers of the lodge and one of the captains in the hunting contest was the defendant in a make-believe charge of buying rabbits. So successfully did the prosecuting attorneys argue—and so adept were they at influencing the jury by the aid of perfectly reliable cigars that not only did it find Hepler guilty of the trumped-up charge, but in addition found his attorney, Thomas Warrensford guilty of attempt to bribe the jury. Hepler was fined 75 cents and Warrensford 75 cents.

Guy Moffitt, Esq., was judge. The prosecuting attorneys were Fred Pieper and Dr. H. H. Hill, the clerk C. S. Patterson, the court crier Jesse Waggoner and the jury Paul Ryland, Ed Schultz, Gus Brickner, C. R. Newcomer, Elbert Carson, L. H. Goehring, E. R. Sphar, William Evans, Thomas Tomlinson, W. Robinson, Matthew Gelder and L. V. Gilleland.

Hospital Open January 1
The Brownsville Hospital association has announced that the new hospital will be opened January 1, 1916 if nothing unexpected happens to disturb the plans. BAPTIST SUPERINTENDENTS PLAN TO ENLARGE SCHOOLS

Banquet Enjoyed in Pittsburgh. When Plans Are Laid for Increasing Enrollment to 20,000.

Superintendents of the Baptist Sunday schools of the Pittsburgh Baptist Association at a banquet held at the Fort Pitt hotel in Pittsburgh Tuesday laid plans for increasing the Sunday school enrollment from 15,000 to 20,000 in the district within the next six weeks. The question of efficiency was discussed by members of the Sunday school board of the association. Eighty-seven per cent of the schools in the association was represented and the banquet meeting was one of the biggest ever held. A. G. Lewis, superintendent of the Charleroi Baptist Sunday school was in attendance.

REVOLVER DROPS; ONE MAN KILLED

George W. Wering, Hunting Near Clarksville, Meets Unusual Death

HIS BODY TAKEN HOME

George W. Wering, aged 35 years was instantly killed while hunting on the Ora Arnold farm near Millsboro Tuesday afternoon when a revolver, which he carried at his belt fell and was discharged on a rock. The 44-calibre ball pierced Wering's heart. The body was removed to Millsboro and was then taken to Pittsburgh by V. E. Reeves and W. C. Reeves of Charleroi to be sent to his home in Curry.

With two friends, Alex Reid and Thomas Wilson Wering went to the Arnold farm last Sunday for a few days' hunting. The three men decided to take one more run through the woods before leaving. They went out after noon and Wering started off alone. After a short time a rabbit jumped out and then ran under a stone pile. Wering carried a gun and wore a revolver in a holster of the stones from the pile and the revolver fell out, struck a rock and was discharged. Wering, it is believed, died instantly.

Wering was an automobile dealer. He leaves his wife and two children. No arrangements have been made for the funeral. Deputy Coroner J. W. Dalby of Greene county was notified immediately following the accident and will conduct an investigation.

Certification to Tabulation Is Made Before Beaver County Prothonotary

PREDICTION IS EXCEEDED

Belief That Congressman-Elect Would Carry District by 12,000 Is Greatly Outdone—Figures Given From Each of Three Counties.

Dr. Henry W. Temple's plurality over Carl E. Gibson for congress in the 24th Pennsylvania district comprising Lawrence, Beaver and Washington counties is 18,012 votes. The official figures show. This is far the largest plurality ever given a congressional candidate in the district.

The official vote as cast in the three counties was certified to by the return judges from each of the three counties, at the prothonotary's office at Beaver Tuesday. Kirk Wrenshall represented this county William Earl in represented Lawrence county and Attorney Laird Beaver county.

Dr. Temple's official total vote in the district was 27,307. Attorney Carl E. Gibson, the Democratic candidate received a total vote in the district 9,295. W. K. Ramsey, the Socialist candidate, received a total of 3,268. A. S. Hunter, the Prohibition candidate, 1,694. John A. Elliott, of Beaver county, who opposed Dr. Temple for the Republican nomination for congress, received one vote, it being cast in this county.

Dr. Temple's plurality exceeds every prediction. It was estimated before the election that he would carry the district by probably 12,000 plurality. Following the election it was estimated that his plurality would be about 16,000. These figures were again put to about 17,000 only to be increased by the official returns to over 18,000.

The following shows the official figures by counties:

STUFFY SCHOOL ROOMS.

If it were possible to make all school open air schools it would unquestionably be of benefit to the pupils. Mind and body would both develop more advantageously. Conditions forbid this but that is no reason why school rooms should be turned into closed ovens with the advent of cooler weather, remarks the state health commissioner in his weekly health chat.

There are thousands of school rooms that depend upon some direct method of heating with no special ventilating apparatus to provide for the admission of pure air. Temperature is too often the sole factor considered by the teacher who forgets that dry vitiated air will react unfavorably on the health of the pupils.

A pan of water should be used on stoves to insure the evaporation of a sufficient amount of water to increase the humidity. This will make a lower temperature more comfortable than a higher degree of heat without the moisture.

A frequent flushing of the air in school rooms by opening the windows and putting the pupils through calisthenic exercises will prove an effective and stimulating procedure. The time that it takes will be more than made up by the quickened activities of both pupils and teacher.

Window boards which will permit the admission of air between the top and bottom sash can be secured with slight effort and expenditure. Cleanliness of air is equally as important as clean water and food stuffs.

There is no reason why children should not be permitted to wear their wraps in school if the temperature is somewhat low. This is the rule in open air schools and it in no way interferes with the school work. When the children leave the school they are exercising and the vigorous action makes up for the difference in temperature between indoors and outdoors.

The teachers who understands the rudiments of hygiene can add immeasurably to the well being of the children and accomplish much toward giving them a proper idea of the value of healthful and cleanly living.

Personal hygiene is no fad. The Greeks taught it three thousand years ago as an essential in the building of a vigorous nation.

The want of health measures and over attention to the three R's often see the child in an early grave.

A REPUBLICAN YEAR.

The whole country is hurrying for a return to the principles and policies of the Republican party. Returns from the recent election in every northern state positively indicate the general trend in the direction of protection to the industries of the United States, the restoration of public confidence and a fixed determination to competent and efficient leadership of Democratic theorists.

New Jersey, President Wilson's state, repudiated the Democrats. In New York overwhelming Republican gains were made. Kentucky seems certain to have been carried for the Republican governor, but the Democrats claim victory by a slim margin. Massachusetts elected a Republican governor by a handsome majority. There was but one Congressional contest in Pennsylvania and Dr. Henry W. Temple a Republican and a protectionist, was elected by a stunning majority.

The Democratic majority in the lower house of the United States Congress, which at the last session was 150 votes, was whittled down to 25 votes. Already the Democratic party is divided on the Congressional program of the administration and the latest course seems certain. Talking with the President's cabinet is

This certainly is a Republican year. The people are clearly tired of conditions which are in their power to relieve. Democracy has had its day. It is time for the advent of the nation.

If we are to believe the theory of the protestantism of a certain number of us are destined to die a future which will meet death in a flash. Regardless of beliefs, theories or cults, it seems that sudden deaths are increasing daily in number. With one sort of precautionary measure to prevent offset by the introduction of a new sort of danger. The railroads and mines were putting their safety first movements on a definite basis at about the time fatal automobile accidents began to multiply. The complexities of a progressive civilization are generally blamed. However, results in this safety and sanity movement would be surer were we to tone down a little in our hurry and scurry of living.

The theory of our real estate tax laws is that the more the owner improves it the more tax he must pay. Thus we place a fine on enterprise and public spirit. It is the man who allows his land to remain idle and useless and who is keeping somebody out of employment while he is waiting for a rise in values due to the industry and enterprise of others, that ought to be fined in this way.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Uncle Josh was comfortably lighting his pipe in the living-room one evening when Aunt Maria glanced up from her knitting.

"John," she remarked, "Do you know that next Sunday will be the twenty-fifth anniversary of our wedding?"

"You don't say so, Maria!" responded Uncle Josh, pulling vigorously on his corn-cob pipe. "What about it?"

"Nothing," answered Aunt Maria, "only I thought maybe we ought to kill them two Rhode Island Red chickens."

"But, Maria," demanded Uncle Josh, "how can you blame them two Rhode Island Reds for what happened twenty-five years ago?"—Kansas City Star.

Two young women were talking hats, servants, picture shows and things like that, when one of them casually referred to a certain Mrs. Smith.

"Poor Mary!" commented the other. "She is a perfect dear, of course, but she suffers much for her belief."

"Her belief?" responded the first, questioning. "And what, pray, may her belief be?"

"She believes," was the soft, cooing whisper of the second, "that she can wear a No. 3 shoe on a No. 6 foot."

COFFEE IN THE DESERT

HOW AN ARAB CHIEF DISPENSES HOSPITALITY.

Making of the Beverage an Act of Some Solemnity—Guests Honored and Made Comfortable Before Conversation.

That morning we left the main caravan, but meant to rejoin it before night. An hour after sunset, however, we were wandering about without a path. Hearing the barking of dogs, we rode toward the sound and soon saw the fires of the encampment of an Arab chief who had been driven from the desert by the drought.

On one side of an open square a large fire was blazing at the man's end of the most spacious of the low black tents. The intermittent blaze, fed by dry weeds of the desert, lighted up a slab of limestone bearing the rudely scratched insignia of the tribe of Bent Sakr. We dismounted, silently, as men do in a land where no one knows whether those whom he meets are enemies or friends. The Arabs, grouped cross-legged or a-squat around the blaze, said nothing, but the chief men rose and motioned to us to be seated, while the others moved to places of less honor. A quilt was brought to spread on the coarse woolen rug, and another was rolled up for me to rest my left elbow on.

It was only after we were comfortable that conversation slowly began. While we talked a servant, on signal, brought out the coffee tongs—two spoons of iron chained together and having handles 18 inches long. Green coffee beans were placed on the larger spoon, which was about six inches in diameter, and were held over the fire to roast. The other spoon, only an inch in diameter, was used to stir the beans and prevent burning. When the coffee was roasted the slow process of grinding began.

The grinder evidently felt that his work was of great importance and should be done artistically. Each stroke of the great wooden pestle was accompanied by a double click on the side of the deep wooden mortar. Then the coffee was boiled, first in one blackened copper pot with a long straight handle, and then in another. Finally the grinder tasted it. Then the cups, two in number, began to circulate. Each man was served with only two or three swallows of the strong black fluid, but the cups were passed to the chief men several times.

As they sip the black unsweetened coffee, the desert prince and his companions talk not only of prices and of the doings of their great ones, but tried to make me understand how they and their people fought with the government not many years ago. The chief's eyes were so fierce and his gestures so violent that I began to think he was really getting angry. "Why does the government take taxes for even our coffee from poor Arabs who come from the desert in time of drought?" he asked. "Have not the Arabs the right to feed their flocks wherever there is grass? Some day soon the soldiers will see what my people will do."—From "Palestine and Its Transformation," by Ellsworth Huntington.

Country Boy Returns Home After Few Weeks' Absence—Driving a Racing Car.

Hutchinson, Kan.—Henry Koehn, a country boy from Galva, McPherson county, was sent to Hutchinson a few weeks ago by his father to get an education in a business college. His father gave him $250 and good advice.

"Now, Henry, be careful," his father advised. "This will be enough money. You can't have extras." Henry came back home, driving a 1915 model racing roadster. He wore a tailor-made suit and a diamond ring. Also he had in his pocket a bank book showing that he had $2,500 or more on deposit in a bank.

A few days after his arrival in Hutchinson with his $250, he fell in with a friend of his father, a grain man. Henry was tempted. He invested his $250 in wheat. Usually it pays out the other way. In Henry's case it didn't. Some say he cleaned up as much as $7,000. Henry is not going to school.

MACEDON, N. Y.—"I was all run down and very thin in flesh, nervous, no appetite, could not sleep and was weak and felt badly all the time. The doctors said I had poor blood and what I had was turning to water. I took different medicines which did not help me, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and strong, and I am recommending it to my friends."—Mrs. FRED CHACE, R. No. 2, Macedon, N. Y.

The Change of Life.

BELTSVILLE, Md.—"By the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I have successfully passed through a most trying time, the Change of Life. I suffered with a weakness, and had to stay in bed three days at a time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to perfect health, and I am praising it for the benefit of other women who suffer as I did."—Mrs. W. S. DUVALL, Route No. 1, Beltsville, Md.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs. It has restored so many suffering women to health.

IN PRAISE OF THE LOAFER

Masters of Inactivity Usually Invite Confidence and the Friendship of His Fellows.

As a profession, of course, loafing is not to be thought of, for the loafer then becomes an object of contempt and there is something wrong with the man who courts contempt. But loafing as an avocation is another thing, and the successful loafer in that sense is a person of parts, a source of wonder and an example for beginners. Loafing should not be confused with apathetic inactivity. Your true loafer is honest with himself and the world, loafing deliberately and openly never apologizing for his aversion to labor; and his thoughts never descend below devising new schemes for pleasant loafing. The loafer who merely sits inert is a loiterer and will bear watching, but the loafer who is alive to what is going on about him and takes a healthy interest in life and affairs seldom arouses distrust or suspicion.

On the contrary, he usually invites confidence and the friendship of those less abundantly gifted. The social qualities are his particular hobby. He applies himself to the business of being useful to those who do not naturally claim attention; he cultivates a pleasant view of life which makes his smile sincere and his handclasp cheering.

Above all, he never exceeds the limitations of his natural endowments. If he is not possessed of an inherent nimbleness of wit he contents himself with making the most of his heavy wit. Affectation he dislikes, but he is never guilty, except by example, of condemning it in others.

OZONE JAG IS THE LATEST

Bracing Air of the Mountains Is Now Carried Into Stuff Offices and Factories.

An ozone jag! One of the newest things, I assure you, and right on the heels of the departing jag that came by way of a morning bracer or an evening cocktail.

The ozone jag is meant to carry the air of a mountain top to your stuffy office or your still stuffer factory and workroom. Instead of having to sneak out when nobody is watching, to get your accustomed eye-opener over the bar, this ozone stimulant is handed around gratis by the boss himself.

Wherever introduced, everybody, from the office boy and typewriter to the head of the establishment, indulges in this new air beverage, which is warranted to make the palest cheek glow like a Gloucester fisherman's and create an appetite that will carry distress to the heart of the stoutest boarding-house mistress.

The ozone is turned loose where all may breathe it. "What is the actual effect?" I inquired of a Philadelphia manufacturer who has really witnessed the results of wholesale ozone jags. "Makes all hands work faster and yet grow fat," was the reply.

The latter result will make it popular in spots, but ought to encourage its sale to persons of the Connie Mack type. Factories in this town are really trying this plan to introduce more ozone by artificial means. Physicians tell me that even in large quantities it will do no harm, but will make the blood tingle as if a mild alcoholic stimulant had been administered.—Philadelphia Ledger.

He Got the Apples.

"Once upon a time," began the teacher, "two little brothers started to Sunday school on Sunday morning. Their way led past a fine orchard where the trees were bending down with ripe, luscious apples. One of the brothers proposed going into the orchard and getting some fruit, but the other refused and sped away, leaving his companion greedily devouring the apples."

"Now, it happened that the owner of the orchard saw them, and the next day rewarded the good boy who refused to steal his apples by giving him a shilling. He got a prize for his honesty, and what do you suppose the other boy got for his dishonesty?"

"He got the apples!" yelled every member of the class.

Audacity of Woman Spies.

A climax to the audacity of spies is said to have been reached in the case of a woman pretending to be English and giving her name as Miss Booth, who, in connection with another woman calling herself Baroness de Rosen, organized a charitable work at the Gare du Nord, in Paris, which they called "For the Wounded and for the Refugees." The former, suspected of illicit communication with the Germans, passed before a court-martial and was sentenced to two years' imprisonment, while the latter, against whom no tangible proof could be produced, was invited to leave French territory within 48 hours.

Lost Art.

They had been sitting around the table at the club all evening as usual talking about the war—always the war. There fell a little silence at last and then Jones spoke. "Is there any person present," said he, "who can tell me what it was we used to talk about before the war?"

British Colonial Taxes.

England's colonies do not pay direct taxes. This principle was established in the American war for independence. Just now the colonies are making voluntary grants and are establishing the principle that they can only be petitioned for free gifts.

RADICAL CHANGES IN CHINA

Republican Government Doing Many Things, Among Others Breaking Through Historic Wall.

The great wall which has surrounded the city of Peking for many centuries is undergoing an unusual change. Peking is laid out in a symmetrical form, with nine gates leading through the great wall. Each side has two gates except the front, where an extra central gate—the Chien men—leads directly into the forbidden city (the central inclosure of Peking). This Chien men, or front gate, is the one most seriously crowded with traffic and yet tradition up to the present day has never permitted it to be enlarged nor any other gate to be broken near it in order to relieve the congestion of rickshaws, carts, donkeys, motor cars, camels and heavy-laden human beasts of burden—coolies.

The present republican government is by no means so superstitious as the old exclusive Manchu regime, but Yuan Shih-kai must take into consideration the superstitions of the people. The gate through which former emperors passed in and out of Peking was opened immediately after the republic was established, but only a few days after it had been thrown open to the public a mutiny of the troops took place in Peking, and much of the town was looted. The cause of the calamity was laid to the credit of the newly opened gate, whereupon it was immediately closed and has never since been swung upon its hinges.

Since the republic has been well established a number of changes in the minor inner walls have taken place, notably two new gates having been broken in one of these inner walls; and as no calamity has befallen the city, the government is now making bold efforts to relieve the congestion at the Chien-men by breaking two new gates through the great wall.

The wall is forty or fifty feet high and forty or fifty feet thick. The work is a difficult task because the excellent mixture of cement of former days has fastened the bricks like stone together with remarkable firmness. It is expected that the sections of another smaller wall will be found within this large wall, the smaller one probably being that which Marco Polo described in the account of his visit to the famous capital of Kublai Khan.

Regulating Electric Lamps.

The demand for regulating the degree of light from an electric lamp has resulted in a lamp which has been recently exploited, containing two separate filaments of the lamp, which may be operated separately or together, giving the lamp a rating of 200 watts, with each filament taking 100 watts. A consumption of 0.6 watt per candlepower is claimed for this lamp, and it has a life of 2,000 hours if the filaments are burned separately, or 1,000 when they are burned together.

APEX OF WASHINGTON SHAFT

Few People Know Purpose of Parallel Iron Bands That Bind Brow of Monument.

Few persons who have seen the Washington monument, even those who have lived within sight of it all their lives, have noticed that the apex of the monument is surrounded with parallel bands. Such is the fact, however; and moreover, the bands are studded with golden points. The bands are made of gold-plated iron a foot wide and the points are spaced a foot from one another.

For a few moments in each sunny day of the first week of the new year the golden fillet that binds the brow of the Washington monument is visible to human eyes. Then the angle of incidence of the sun's rays is such that they are reflected downward to the windows of the buildings north and west of the monument, and the cool, gray surface is seen to be marked with eleven shining lines of gold.

Theoretically, a similar effect could be obtained from some point of observation at each moment when the sun's rays are intercepted by the sloping top of the monument, but only an airship could attain the necessary vantage point.

According to the original plan of the monument, it was protected from lightning by an aluminum tip that was connected with the metal framework of the elevator. During the very first summer after the monument was completed, however, it was struck twice and a piece of stone was clipped from the top.

Experts from the scientific departments of the government were called on to contrive a plan for the better protection of the shaft, and they decided that copper bands, studded with projecting points, would accomplish the purpose. Colonel Casey, who had charge of the work, objected on the ground that copper would turn green and that the verdigris would "run" and spoil the appearance of the monument; he also doubted that the copper would have the necessary tensile strength.

So the men of science agreed on a number of iron bands, heavily galvanized and gold-plated to prevent rusting. The bands are connected with the aluminum point of the monument and the framework of the elevator, and at the base iron cables lead the electricity into a deep well, where it harmlessly expends its force. The protection has proved to be perfect.—Youth's Companion.

OVER FIVE THOUSAND KILLED IN INDUSTRIES DURING THE ONE MONTH

Accidents in Pennsylvania industries during October resulted in injuries to 5,102 employees. Ninety-three workers died from their injuries. Sixty-four men were killed in mines and fourteen in metal trades work.

The total number of injuries recorded for October at the bureau of statistics and information of the department of labor and industry is lower than the records for either August or September. The September toll of 5,093 killed and injured workers was the highest for any month during the year.

The marked reduction of almost 10 per cent in the number of injuries for October under September's record is attributed by Labor Commissioner Jackson to increasingly smoother working conditions in plants rushed with war orders.

Of the total number of workers injured during October, 474 were disabled for more than 30 days and 4,584 were disabled for periods of less than 30 days.

Wednesday continues to be the day of the week when most accidents occur. The record of October accidents by days is: Wednesdays, 929; Tuesday, 874; Friday 872; Thursday, 861; Monday, 835; Saturday, 583; Sunday, 208.

During the first 10 months of this year, 42,890 workers were injured in Pennsylvania industries, according to reports made to the bureau of statistics and information. Of that number, 837 died from their injuries and 8,227 were disabled for more than 30 days.

SECOND ISSUE OF P. H. C. BOOSTER APPEARS

The second issue of the P. H. C. Booster, the official paper of Charleoi Circle, No. 303, Protected Home Circle, this week makes its appearance. Like the first issue, this one is full of matters of news interest to the members of the Protected Home Circle and for that matter to outsiders. The publication is put out in good style and the matter it contains is presented in an attractive way. Charles Hanbury, district deputy for the Protected Home Circle is virtually in charge of the publication, with C. B. Copeland and others assisting on the advertising end. The Booster has a circulation chiefly among P. H. C. folk of the Monongahela valley district.

FOR BALANCED RATION

WELL TO DECIDE ON AND PROVIDE WEEK'S SUPPLY.

By Arranging Menus a Few Days Ahead, Variety of Suitable Meals May Be Supplied With Little Trouble—Points to Consider.

Food is necessary to build tissue, replenish waste, create heat and energy and satisfy appetite. In order to be perfect food, it must contain sufficient protein or tissue-building elements to cause a continual and gradual growth, and to overcome fatigue; sufficient starch and sugar to give an abundance of energy and body heat; fat in sufficient quantity to replace loss in illness or great mental or muscular exertion, and ash or mineral salts for feeding bones and tissues.

The balanced ration may be obtained in several ways and without variety. For instance, we may eat meat, bread and butter and potatoes, but a continuation of this diet, while it may cost a great deal for meat and butter, would not give good results, as the diet would be too concentrated and constipation and its attendant ills would follow. Or, one might eat entirely of vegetables, such as beans and potatoes, and the quantity necessary to supply the required amount of protein would give too much bulk and often tissue starvation will occur.

In providing food for a normal family the housekeeper will find it provident to decide upon and put in a week's supplies, thereby insuring a variety of well-balanced meals at less cost. There is no more extravagant habit than buying a meal at a time. The housekeeper will find that arranging her menus a few days ahead, until three meals a day are provided for, allowing some variation for vegetables, meats and desserts, and providing against the embarrassment of a quick meal, will give her a feeling of security never possible where only one meal is taken care of at a time.

We should decide on the menus after we have proportioned our income, pro-rating the percentage of food so that only one-fourth of the income is used for this purpose. The occupation of the different members of the family, climate, temperament, sex, individual health, all must be taken into consideration, and then such foods as we can afford with due regard given to their caloric value will be determined upon.

The mother will remember that whether the children acquire full size and strength depends more on their food than upon anything else. A child from three to five years old requires four-tenths as much food as a man at moderate work; from six to nine years one-half as much, while a boy fifteen years old requires as large a quantity of foods as his father engaged at moderate labor.

In a cold climate more is needed, and this fact is not due to the temperature, but to the greater activity of the people, and it will be noticed that fat forms a large proportion of the northern diet, as it is oxidized slowly in the body. A tall, thin person consumes more food than a short, stout person, for the reason that a large surface is exposed and is the cause of greater loss of heat.

Personal idiosyncrasies must be considered. It is a homely, but true saying that "one man's meat is another man's poison."

Famous Singer to Appear at Schenley Theatre in Interpretation of Adelaide—Will be Assisted by Competent Cast.

It was while singing in Wagnerian and other standard repertoire at the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, London, that David Bispham found and translated from the German, a strong one-act play called "Adelaide," in which the central figure is Beethoven, and in which, as the great master, Mr. Bispham will appear for one performance only in the Schenley Theatre, Pittsburgh on Saturday evening, November 13. The story of "Adelaide" is founded upon a fact briefly told in writing to a friend, by Beethoven himself, though poetic license has been taken by the author in elaborating his play, which shows Beethoven in his lodgings in Vienna about a hundred years ago. Mr. Bispham's physical characteristics, his vocal, recitative and dramatic abilities enable him to give a striking impersonation of the deaf composer and his portrayal is a truly notable piece of acting, which has won the unstinted approbation of the New York press and public, in which city it was recently given to crowded houses for a week's engagement. Mr. Bispham succeeds in making Beethoven a very real personage and withal a lovable one. His traditional characteristics are all clearly brought out. During the action of the play several Beethoven numbers will be given, including "Romance in F," "Joyful and Sorrowful" from Egmont, "Adelaide" and the "Moonlight Sonata."

Preceding "Adelaide," Mr. Bispham and his company will appear in an original musical entertainment called "The Rehearsal," which is especially interesting because of the sound philosophy of Mr. Bispham's remarks on the artistic life. It also serves to introduce his very excellent supporting company, which includes Miss Idelle Patterson, formerly prima donna with De Wolf Hopper in the Gilbert and Sullivan operas; Marie Narelle, who portrays the character of Adelaide, Beethoven's beloved, and who recently toured with John McCormack; Henri Barron, tenor; Graham Harris, violinist formerly with the New York Symphony orchestra and Kathleen Coman the Australian pianist.
